

Can we distribute CleanUp! on our shareware CD?

Well, that depends. CleanUp! is freeware, and not shareware. That is, I get no revenue from its use. And since the intent is that it is available - for free - to end users, then you should not be charging anything for your CD. For example, CleanUp! has been featured on the free CDs that come with several major computer magazines - this is what I would consider acceptable use. However, including it on a CD that is sold, I would not consider acceptable use unless, of course, you'd like to make a decent donation to help fund CleanUp! development - contact me with your request.

Either way, I'm always interested to know where CleanUp! is featured so please drop me a note with the information and a link with details. I'll even add this information to the CleanUp! web site.
